
Title: By the gods for a god

Author: Angelique

Isk,
I hope this small token of my love in some way shows how very much I love you. I had wished to give you this as a wedding gift, but could not afford it way back then.

As our family and my love for you have grown so has my gold stash.
Finally I found one and was able to get it just last night.

Mama says

"All things come with time." I prefer to think that we, in time, will have all things worth having.

This axe was made by the gods and should be wielded by one.

Isk you are a god in my eyes, marked by the gods to stand out
amongst the common
man.

You are intellegent
and cunning, You are handsome and strong.

You are tender and caring. You are cleaver and fierce in battle.
You are the most wonderful father and husband I could ever imagine. You are passionate, compassionate, you are honorable without fault, There has ne`r been a day I have not had but the highest regard for you as a human, nor a day I have been less in love with you than the day before.

All my heart is
yours, today, tomorrow, and always.

Angelique
a lovely pair of angel wings